

Gotherington Neighbourhood Development Plan

An Enduring Vision

Gotherington Today

The Parish of Gotherington is located some five miles north of Cheltenham, on the A435 road to Evesham. It lies on one of the Severn River terraces at about 60 metres above sea level and below Nottingham Hill, which is an outlier off Cleeve Hill.

Over the hundreds of years of its history Gotherington has continued to develop into a thriving community, which offers an excellent quality of life to its residents. If this is to be maintained in the face of the challenges ahead, we need to take steps to plan for our own future. This is what the Neighbourhood Plan aims to do.

Gotherington residents have a strong sense of community and well-being. Among the features admired most in the village are the community spirit, traditional lifestyle and being part of a rural community. The open views of the countryside, peace and quiet, and country walks, combined with good access to Cheltenham are valued as is the wide range of facilities and services available. The village is mostly crime free and is perceived as caring about its environment.

The village shop, The Shutter Inn and Gotherington Primary School are regarded as particularly valuable amenities and there is general satisfaction with the village hall and the Rex Rhodes Building although there are some suggestions for improvement.

A sound housing development plan is vital to secure the future of Gotherington as we want it so please support your Neighbourhood Development Plan.
